Cinevolve Sets The Line For Nov. 25

Los Angeles-based Cinevolve Studios has selected Nov. 25 as the DVD debut date for India-born Australian filmmaker Michael Adante's The Line.

Announced back in June at the EMA Convention, Cinevolve had just landed the domestic DVD distribution rights to this critically-praised Australian crime thriller. With a Nov. 25 street date now in play, the company has plenty of time to get the word out on this indie film find.

An Asian crime syndicate member is murdered and the lid on a volatile situation is about to explode — blood will flow. It falls to under-experienced detective James Jewel (David Barry — Surviving Paradise) to work with screw-loose undercover Sergeant Mike Calis (Andy McPhee — The Condemned) to unravel the mystery behind the internecine power play.
